

CT Symposium Development Team Volunteer

Are you interested in having a CT focused event? Are you looking for a place to share ideas and network with other CT technologists? The OAMRS hoping to bring CT technologists together and facilitate the sharing of ideas.

Goal

CT Symposium Development Team will work with OAMRS staff to develop a CT Symposium. The full day education Symposium brings CT Technologist together for an exciting day of speakers covering a wide range of innovative technologies and practices that affect the profession. Attendees will gain insights and tools to enhance their practice with live demonstrations.

Volunteer Duties and Responsibilities

- Working at part of a team contribute to the development of a CT Symposium (1-2 line description of the Symposium)
- Participate in teleconference calls
- Offer content and speaker suggestions
- Attend and/or assist at day of Symposium (if available)

Volunteer Skills and Qualifications

Volunteers need to be empathetic, great communicators, and comfortable working as part of a team towards shared goals and targets. There is no formal requirement to become a volunteer, but the following skills are beneficial:

- Teamwork – volunteers should work well as part of a team and value diversity, as they will often be working with people of all different backgrounds and ages
- Communication skills – volunteers should have strong communication skills
- Confidentiality – volunteers are often involved in working with confidential matters or sensitive subjects, so their ability to withhold this information is vital
- Organization skills – in order to manage different tasks, volunteers need to be organized and able to manage their time effectively
- Work ethic – it's important that volunteers have an excellent work ethic to achieve goals

Time commitment

- Proposed date of Symposium: Spring 2021
- Volunteer must be available for regular teleconference call meetings. Initially, teleconferences calls will be 6 to 10 week apart but increase as needed

Benefits for Volunteers

- Earn CPD hours
- Advance your collaboration and team working skills
- Help increase the quality of patient care in our profession. This helps advance the reputation and respect of our profession
- Networking helps increase you career prospects
- Make your resume standout by developing important soft skills including: communication skills, presentation and meeting skills, creativity, teamwork and collaboration
- Free admission to CT Symposium

If you love sharing knowledge, networking, education and connecting with people please contact OAMRS Professional Services Coordinator Shannon McCracken for more information mccrackens@oamrs.org